NATIONALISTS IN GERMANY START FIGHT AGAINST PACT

Party Will Oppose Dawes Bills In Reichstag

DEBATE IS BEGUN

Herriot Reports On Events At London

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, August 25.—The Reichstag today began the debate on the Pact of London. Herr Hergt, on behalf of the German National Party, declared that the Party disapproved of the Pact and would therefore oppose all bills connected with it.

(French Wireless Through Reuter)

Paris August 25.—Replying to an interpellation M. Herriot said that on arrival in London he had found himself tied by previous decisions especially in connection with the question of debts. He fought with his back to the wall, but with a determination to bring things to a successful termination.

The Dawes plan, he said, was founded on co-operation and not upon coercion, and its great virtue lay in the necessity for solidarity among the Allies and rapprochement with Germany, while at the same time it permits the participation of the United States.

The Premier emphasised the fact that acceptance of the principle of arbitration was not a sacrifice for France, who henceforward would place her interests under the protection of the law. He declared that if money were given to Germany, it was in order that the Allies might eventually get back the millions foreseen by the plan of the experts, and Germany would have to submit to be controlled in the whole of her economic activities.

Regarding the question of the Inter-Allied debts M. Herriot recalled that the French experts had not neglected to support the

CIVIL SUIT BY DUNNE AGAINST CHINESE EDITORS

In connection with statements appearing in Chinese newspapers here in connection with the Dunne case recently, for which six editors and publishers have already been charged with criminal libel for injuring the personal credit of Mr. Dunne by circulating certain rumors and publishing untrue reports, four of these defendants were yesterday summonsed in a civil case, with the Inspector as plaintiff, in which he sues for 5,000 taels damages.

The men sued are Messrs. Jabin Hsu and Sung Toong-woo, of the Shanghai Tribune, and Zung Pooiai and Lee Tsung-woo, of the Shanghai Journal of Commerce. There is a joint action against the first two "for publishing comments in the Shanghai Tribune on August 15," and a similar joint action against the second two. No date is set for a hearing of the case, but the defendants must file answers within twenty days.

Martial Law In Canton As People Are Urged To Join Strike Against Sun

Rigid Censorship Is Put On All Telegrams Both Foreign And Chinese; No Press Messages Allowed; Strike Is On Throughout The City

(Eastern News Agency)

Canton, August 25.—Thousands of pamphlets have been distributed among the citizens of Canton urging that at this time, when the Communists have become predominant in the South, the citizens should all rise in arms and protect themselves, with the consequence, as previously reported, a general strike has been carried out throughout the City of Canton.

Accordingly, the Canton Government has issued a proclamation to the effect that the authorities would not hold themselves responsible for the maintenence of peace and order in the city unless the general strike is terminated by 4 p.m. of the 25th instant, and has, at the same time, ordered martial law all over the city.

This afternoon the Government, suddenly started to censor telegrams, both foreign and Chinese, and to prohibit the despatch of all telegrams, excluding such official reports by all the foreign Consulates written in either English or French language that make no reference to the strike. No press telegrams are being handled by the Chinese Telegraph Office here, and the Government has begun to bring extreme pressure upon newspapers and other organs of public opinion.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Canton, August 22.—Acting as if they have but a few more days to dominate Canton, the Kuomintang officials are pressing hard on the inhabitants for their contributions. The fourth monthly rent contribution in 1924 which the Canton landlord must pay is to be paid to the Police before the end of August. The military impost on land deeds inspection, at a fee of three percent of the property value, must be paid before August 24. The authorities are encouraging informants to report cases of landowners not paying the fee. The deeds examination office is placarding every delinquent lot or building with the sign, "This has not received an inspection certificate."

While Mr. Sun Fo is superintending the carrying out of this impost on landowners, the joint financial commission of the Yunanese, and Kwangsi mercenary troops is exacting another contribution from the boat population of Kwangtung. Every sampan has to pay a contribution the minimum of which must not be less than three dollars, while the larger craft have to pay more in accordance with a schedule already published. The excuse for this latest impost is that since July 1, the mercenary troops have not been given any regular allowance by Dr. Sun Yat-sen, and that, in the face of the enemy (General Chen Chiung-ming) approaching, the people cannot afford to be defenceless, and the troops will be able to give protection, for which the people must pay.

Dr. Sun's Red Army, to be known as the "Canton Labor Corps", which will be equipped it is said, with arms recently seized from the Canton Merchant Volunteers, has now an enrolment of more than 1,500. Many in Canton fear that the favors shown towards the working-class by the Kuomintang Government will culminate in further ill-feeling between the employers and the employees in Canton.

As a sign of non-support of the Kuomintang Government in Canton, the native bankers have refused to negotiate the banknotes of Dr. Sun Yat-sen's Central Bank, the merchants have declared the Canton newspapers partial and one sided and unworthy of further patronage, the rice shops are holding supplies for the benefit of the Volunteer Corps in preparation for possible conflict between the people and the Kuomintang; and the ward and street committees are erecting barriers within their spheres to prevent looting by Chinese Bolshevists in the clash which many think inevitable.

The arrival of wounded soldiers at Wongsha, Canton, in the last few days appears to point the fact that all is not well in districts north of Canton. However, strict censorship of the press, telegrams, and mail in Canton has resulted in no news being available except official communiques from Dr. Sun Yat-sen's press bureaux and subsidized news agencies. Since August 14, Dr. Sun has called in many outside troops, and some in Canton have advanced the theory that General Chen Chiung-ming and his followers are returning to Canton from the East River districts to oust Dr. Sun and his Kuomintang party. It is not believed in well-informed circles that General Chen will be able to affect the situation in Canton by so early a return.

While persons friendly to Dr. Sun are trying to dissociate him from all that has happened in the last two years by saying that he has been for some time but the tool of the selfish faction which is using the name of Kuomintang for private gain, the Cantonese people will no longer tolerate his presence in their midst. The sign of the times in Canton clearly points in the direction of his being compelled to go. Coming developments in this part of China should be exceedingly interesting in the next few months.

The Kuomintang Party in Canton, dominated by the Chinese Bolshevists, is now desperate. The party has put it on record that the Cantonese merchants, as well as the laborers, farmers,

Italian Airmen Are Picked Up After Drifting Three Days At Sea

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, August 25.—The Italian airman, Signor Locatelli, has been found.

Later.—The cruiser Raleigh has sent a message saying that she picked up Signor Locatelli and his companions, all of whom are well, at midnight, in Latitude 59 degrees 56 min., Longitude 39 degrees 48 mins.

Later.—A despatch from the cruiser Richmond states that Signor Locatelli was picked up by her 125 miles east of Cape Farewell, after the Raleigh had sighted the aeroplane.

Motor trouble forced the Italian airman to alight on the water last Thursday. Unable to ascend again, he drifted 100 miles. He and his companions are uninjured but are worn out by fatigue.

The aeroplane will be destroyed in accordance with Signor Locatelli's wish.

(Reuter's American Service)

New York, Aug. 25.—It is learned that Signor Locatelli has definitely abandoned his attempt at world flight.

The U.S.S. Richmond found him in the nick of time.

Signor Locatelli after his forced descent made many unsuccessful attempts to rise from the water. He had plenty of gasoline, but the elevators were damaged. Subsequently his machine was buffeted by the winds and waves and began to break up. Dense fog and intense cold added to the airmen's troubles, and they drifted helplessly until picked up.

Noted American Writer Arrives In Shanghai On Round-The-World Liner

Peter B. Kyne Talks Of His Work; The Romance Of Shipping; Shanghai As A Cosmopolitan Port

Peter B. Kyne, the American writer whose name is known to millions through his stories in the "Saturday Evening Post," the "Cosmopolitan," and other publications, through his writings in book form, and through his photo-plays, is now in Shanghai, having reached here yesterday morning on the Dollar Line's round-the-world steamer "President Monroe." The noted writer is traveling with Mrs. Kyne and a secretary, Miss Ohlson.

Mr. Kyne has not only been extremely successful as a short story writer, novelist, and film playwright, but his "Cappy Ricks" and other stories have done much to arouse interest in shipping in America, particularly along the Pacific Coast. There is a real fascination and romance about the sea and the great masses of merchandise it carries on its bosom, and about the men who guide and direct and operate this vast business.

A representative of The China Press met the writer yesterday afternoon. Breezy and pleasant, the novelist's first remark was a rather unexpected boost for Shanghai. "Well," he said, "Shanghai tailors are the quickest in the world." "What?" gasped the interviewer. "Did you say 'quickest'?" "I did," affirmed Mr. Kyne. "I ordered two suits two hours ago, and just now tried them on. That's speed." So the keenness of the novelist succeeded in finding at once here what many old and experienced Shanghailanders never suspected the existence of.

Mr. Kyne's acquaintance with the Dollar Line long antedates his traveling on their great round-the-world boats. He is acquainted with all the brothers personally. When he himself was a lumber and shipping broker in San Francisco twenty-five years ago his little office was just across the hall from the Dollar enterprise, which had a wooden sign strung on a piece of wire, "Robert Dollar, Lumber and Shipping." Mr. Kyne was tickled at the recollection of having made more out of the business than Stanley Dollar at that time. "Sure I was making more," said the ex-broker. "I must have been making about thirty dollars a month, and Stanley was not making more than twenty." At that time the Dollar Line consisted of one little schooner running from Grays Harbor to San Diego.

This is not Mr. Kyne's first trip to the Orient. He was in the Philippines twenty-six years ago, having served in the Army during the Spanish-American War. "Served as a plain buck private," said the author, chuckling. "First one you've met? Well, there were several privates in the Army, though it's funny where they've all disappeared to, isn't it?" He was down with amoebic dysentery in the Philippines, and cured himself by drinking buffalo water. "I had had nothing to drink all day, and was mad with heat and thirst," he said, "and I crawled to a buffalo hole and drank. 'It was crawlin and it stunk,' but it's one of the best drinks I ever had, and it cured my dysentery. This isn't a recommendation for anyone else. I'm only telling my own experience." In the war with Germany Mr. Kyne served as an officer.

"Cappy Ricks," said the writer, asked about his best-known figure, "is a composite. He's compounded mainly of Captain Robert Dollar and Captain Simpson of the Simpson Lumber Company of San Francisco. I knew many of the old lumber and shipping men of the Coast, but life has run away from most of them. Only Mr. Dollar has managed to keep up with the times. He was one of the iconoclasts who was willing to do away with the

RESTRICTION ON RUBBER PROVES DOUBTFUL BOON

Gloomy View Taken By London Writer; All Depends On American Demand

(Reuter's Service)

London, Aug. 25.—Commenting on the fact that the further reduction to 55 percent in the exportable allowance of rubber has up to the present failed materially to influence the price of the commodity, the Times says that whether or not the exportable allowance is necessarily reduced, owing to failure of the price average of 15 pence per pound for a full quarter, must primarily depend on the American demand and on prodution in the Dutch Indies.

The journal says that should successive reductions of the export quota be involved, the outlook for all but the most efficient producers will become very unfavorable. The extent to which the output is now limited is exerting an adverse influence on costs and if over a lengthy period no compensation is given by a higher price, some planters will begin to wonder if, after all restriction is simply a means of rendering the inevitable period of strain more prolonged than would otherwise have been the case.

(Reuter's Service)

London, Aug. 26.—The City Editor of the Times commenting on the rubber position in the Straits says that, the longer the present situation continues, the greater will be the strain on British companies, and the more insistent will become the call for a reconsideration of the whole restriction scheme.

NANKING COMMANDEERS S. N. R. ROLLING STOCK; EXODUS TO SHANGHAI

Outbreak Of War Now Probable As More Warlike Gestures Are Being Made By Both Sides; Martial Law Here Enfored; Peace Makers Depart With Simple Plan For Belligerents

War Probable Says Peking

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, August 26.—Censorship has been instituted.

It is feared that war very probably will break out between the Chihli Party and Chekiang shortly.

Kiangsu is stated to be sending, by sailing vessels, native troops to Shanghai.

Apparently the attack on Chekiang will be made from three sides.

Commandeering of practically all the freight cars of the Shanghai-Nanking Railway by Tuchun Chi Hsieh-yuan of Nanking was the most sensational development in yesterday's political situation in Shanghai. Despite provision in the treaties that no troops can be transported along the Nanking line, General Chi Hsieh-yuan of Nanking, it is understood, issued an order to Mr. C. P. Yin, managing director of the railroad to hand over 30 trains of 13 cars and one locomotive each by three o'clock yesterday afternoon. The order, it was learned late last night, was complied with by Director Yin.

Exodus from all the cities along the Shanghai-Nanking Railway began yesterday. Passengers who arrived here by the night trains were unanimous that war was imminent, that much of the stretch of territory between here and Nanking is a huge armed camp. While some of the tales of the panic-stricken refugees can not be taken seriously, that the situation is most serious is beyond question.

Soochow apparently is suffering the worst. Soldiers have already become disorderly. Many of the shops have suspended business. The pawn shops led the strike three days ago and were quickly followed by the restaurants, jewellery stores and silk firms. Missionaries report that lawlessness is common in the city and many of the well-to-do families are fleeing in this directions.

Changchow is to be the commanding center of the Kiangsu Army it is reported. General Chi is expected to arrive there today to mobilise the troops for active service on the Chekiang front. Wusih is to be the chief supply center and a ban has been proclaimed over the exportation of all cereals from that city.

A telephone message received at the local Railway Station from the Henli Station last night stated that all telephone communications above this town have been suspended, while mines were being laid north of the Henli railway bridge.

SECURITY MUST BE FIRST, SAYS FRENCH REGIME

Government Explains Views On Treaty Of Mutual Assistance

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, August 26.—The Government has issued an official statement on its views with regard to the Treaty of Mutual Assistance, which will be discussed at the forthcoming Assembly of the League of Nations. It says that while desirous of following the traditional policy of France to support the League, the French Government is willing to approve the Pact only so far as it may be consistent with her desire to ensure her security and the reduction of armaments but the Government will not consent under any circumstances to participate in a conference for reduction of armaments without a preliminary guarantee of security.

In any case the question of reduction of French armaments might be more suitably discussed by the French Parliament. The statement justifies the Treaties entered into by France for her own security and makes a number of suggestions for improving the terms of the Treaty.

Good Record In U.S. Navy Wins Leniency For Baker

Carl S. Baker, who was arrested at the Navy Y.M.C.A. recently and charged with obtaining money under false pretences by representing himself as agent for the Army and Navy Journal and the American Red Cross, appeared before Judge Milton D. Purdy in the United States Court for China here yesterday Mr. H. D. Rodger, Acting U. S. District Attorney, appeared for the prosecution, and Major Holcomb for the defense.

The defendant pleaded guilty, but with extenuating circumstances. He had been in the United States Navy for twenty years, had an excellent record, and had never been in legal difficulties before. He had had serious domestic troubles a few years ago which culminated in a divorce, and soon after he left the Navy, a broken-hearted man. He had come to Shanghai a little over a month ago, expecting to find desirable employment in his occupation as musician, but had found no work here, and had bought a ticket to go away at the time of his arrest. While here an acquaintance had recommended absinthe to quiet his nerves, and he had drunk very much of the stuff. He was intoxicated at the time the offenses were committed. He pleaded guilty, though one of the cases he has no recollection of whatever.

Mr. Rodger, Acting U. S. District Attorney, briefly referred to the two counts upon which the defendant was charged. The first was that of the Scandinavian Brewery Co., where he had obtained Mex. $30 from Mr. Sabelstrom, Manager, through presenting himself as representative of the Army and Navy Journal, the money being in payment for space in the magazine. The second was that of Peter Thakalian, a Russian citizen, from whom he had obtained Mex. $5 by claiming to represent the American Red Cross. Mr. Rodger had heard of a man going around in this way and collecting money, and had finally located the defendant. He had seen the man's Navy record, which was in Court, and had ascertained that it was genuine. It shows him to have been twenty years in the United States Navy and to hold the highest kind of rating as regards deportment, etc.

Major Holcomb, for the defendant, referred to the man's Navy service, which included the time America was at war. It was the defendant's first arrest. Drunkenness was of course no excuse for crime, but a man is likely to do anything under the circumstances. Counsel called attention to the fact that if the amount is less than G.$35 not more than a year's imprisonment or $200 fine may be levied. The man had already purchased a steamship ticket to America, and counsel asked that he be permitted to return there. The Navy record was given to his Honor for inspection.

Mr. Rodger added that the first complainant, who had failed to appear, had said the man was drunk at the time. He came in twice, and they gave him $30 in order to get rid of him.

U. S. Marshal Porter stated that as regards the man's ticket, he had cashed same, the defendant being under arrest and unable to leave.

Judge Purdy said that this was a case where he felt that, considering all the circumstances, the leniency of the Court should be exercised. The man was 39 years of age and had lived a very serviceable life. There was no reason why he should let these domestic difficulties of his blot out his future and make his life a disgrace to himself, to his parents, and to his country. He should brace up, and the Court wanted to give him an opportunity to do so. Rather than with the idea of punishment, the Court wanted to give him a place to stay until he could get away from Shanghai. He had pleaded guilty, and the Court sentenced him to imprisonment in the United States Jail here in Shanghai for a period of one week.

PEKING DENIES JAPANESE TALE OF ARMS DEAL

Document Purported To Have Been Given American Firm Held Forgery

(BY UNITED PRESS)

Peking, Aug. 26.—The Ministry of War today officially notified the American Legation that the document made public some time ago by the Japanese Legation which purported to be a huchow enabling an American firm to bring great quantities of arms into China through Tientsin, was never issued by the Ministry of War and that Customs reports showed that such a shipment had never entered Tientsin.

The American charge d'affaires promptly notified the Japanese Legation of the announcement by the Ministry of War.

The Chinese believe that the huchow is a forgery, although it has not been used officially.

The Japanese Legation originally charged that the arms were shipped from Shanghai.

With the statement by the Ministry of War and the notification sent to the Japanese Legation the incident is now considered closed.

Coolie Killed By Automobile Driven By Foreigner Here

A coolie was run over and killed Monday afternoon by an automobile driven by Mr. E. P. Wilson, of the Electricity Department of the S. M. C. The accident occurred on Broadway near Yuenfong Road. The unfortunate coolie, it appears, had stepped over from the rear of a westbound street-car right into the path of the automobile.

An inquest was held yesterday by Mr. Bucknell, American Assessor, and Magistrate Li. Evidence showed that the deceased was knocked down and dragged about thirty or forty feet before the car stopped. S. P. C. 385, who witnessed the accident, said first that the car was going fast, then changed his statement, saying that it was going at medium speed but faster than other traffic. The auto horn had been blown. The car had gone on about thirty feet after striking the man.

Mr. Wilson, the driver of the car, stated that he was driving at about fifteen or eighteen miles an hour—it could not have been thirty. He saw the man as soon as he came from behind the street-car. He blew his horn, tried to swerve in order to avoid him, and applied the brakes. He had one foot on the accelerator and one on the brake. He could not have dragged him as far as thirty feet. He did not know the man was under the car, as he was taken up with stopping it. He had driven a car for about six months. He did not consider ten yards very far to pull up in.

The Assessor remarked that it was pretty far for a man going only fifteen miles an hour. All they could find, however, was that the deceased met his death through the injuries received. Anything more would depend upon the British Court.

Japanese Warship Worries Kamchatka

(Reuter's Service)

Moscow, Aug. 26.—The Pravda announcing the arrival of Japanese war-ship at Ust-Kamchatka says that the local authorities have requested the commander to leave the place, but the war-ship remains and refuses to move. The report adds that this greatly irritates and perturbs the population of Kamchatka.

Murder Case Is Continued In Mixed Court Here

Tsu Ching-eu and Tsu Nyok-tsung, the two men charged with the murder of Woo Shu Ching-pau, head foreman at a Japanese mill where all three were employed, appeared in the Mixed Court here again yesterday before Mr. Shimizu, Japanese Assessor, and Magistrate Den, the case being continued from the day before. Mr. Heen and Mr. Chu are appearing for the defense of the second accused.

Testimony has already been given by the murdered man's father to the effect that his son named his murderers before he died, and that the killing was apparently due to his son's failure to pay $20 to the first accused, formerly head foreman in the mill, who was supplanted as boss by young Woo and demanded money as compensation. Evidence was also given by two eye-witnesses of the assault, which resulted in Woo's death. One of them knows the second accused, whose occupation is given as a clerk, as a detective. Both witnesses had seen the accused strike and kick the deceased.

Further evidence was given yesterday, and the case remanded for a special hearing later in the week, when an important witness is expected to appear. It is hoped to conclude the case at the next hearing.

STUDENT RELIEF WORKER HERE ON WAY TO CANTON

Mr. Raymond T. Rich Tells Of Aid Given Thousands In Europe

Mr. Raymond T. Rich who for the last year and a half was connected with and for a considerable part of the time, had charge of the work of the European Student Relief Association, arrived in Shanghai yesterday for a few days' visit before proceeding to Canton where he will spend a year as lecturer on contemporary history, sociology and economics at the Canton Christian College.

The European student relief work extended through seventeen European countries and was supported by contributions from thirty-five different countries. It was a branch of the World's Student Christian Association and was designed for the purpose of lending assistance to students. In Russia alone the Association provided food for 30,000 students and in Europe altogether the number helped amounted to approximately 800,000. All of the work of course did not consist of providing food to students whose work was disrupted as a result of the war, but consisted in providing employment and temporary instruction to carry the students over until the educational institutions could be reorganised.

This work, according to Mr. Rich, has been of great help in connection with general reconstruction, for students brought together from the various countries have helped to break down ancient prejudices and thus have helped in paving the way for reconstruction. Mr. Rich is a graduate of Brown University and while in Europe acted as traveling correspondent for the Christian Science Monitor of Boston.

Joint Company Takes Control Of Tsingtao Leader; Plan New Paper

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tsingtao, August 22.—Tsingtao's first English daily newspaper will be launched here on September 1, a new company known as the Tsingtao Times Company having taken over the Tsingtao Leader, now published semi-weekly. The latter will automatically go out of existence with the advent of the new paper. The new concern includes Chinese, Japanese and Americans in its directorate, and in the statement of its aims declares that it will "work for best interests of Tsingtao by promoting international co-operation and friendship among its cosmopolitan population, by stimulating its commercial and industrial development, by supporting and advocating all measures pertaining to civic betterment, and by making Tsingtao better known to the outside world."

German Nationalists To Oppose Pact

French point of view, and to stress the special character of these war debts. As to the question of security, it must now again be understood as resting on the Treaty of Versailles and not upon the occupation of the Ruhr.

The London Agreements, the Premier continued, would bring France material advantages, such as the payment of the first annuity of Fcs. 800,000,000, as well as political and moral advantages. In conclusion he declared that these Agreements were the first links in the chain of international co-operation. The Dawes plan did not establish a definite peace, and France must remain prudent and resolute, but her attitude must be tempered by a spirit of compromise. The country had need of tranquillity, and it was requisite to restore a sound basis of financial policy. The Government had not brought a peace in its entirety, but it brought the hopes of such a consummation.

The speech of the Premier received an ovation, the Deputies of the Left and a large number of the Center standing up and applauding.

By 336 votes to 204 a resolution was passed congratulating the Government on its having adopted the principle of arbitration, which would permit of a practical and pacific solution of difficulties with international co-operation. The resolution also expressed confidence in the Government in its task of regulating in the future the question of debts and security.

The Chamber also passed a vote by 363, with 156 against, to publish the speech of the Premier for general information.

Woman Victim Of Murderous Attack Dies In Hospital

The woman who was found on Macao Road early Monday morning in a pool of blood, apparently left for dead by her attackers, died early yesterday morning at Shantung Road Hospital. An inquest was held later in the day by Mr. Bucknell, American Assessor, and Magistrate Li, and found that the deceased met her death through injuries at the hands of some person or persons unknown.

The woman was identified as Ting Ching-sz. She was apparently about 23 years of age.

Dr. Tower, who attended the woman at the hospital, stated that she had collapsed from shock and loss of blood. Various injuries were noted, at least one of which may have been due to a bullet wound. The cause of death was shock and cerebral injury as the result of an extensive compound fracture of the skull.

No trace has yet been found of the murderers. Judging from the property found on the deceased the motive of the attack was not robbery.

NEUTRALS PLAN SETTLEMENT OF PREMIER FIGHT

Promoters Plan Conference Of Opposing Parties At Peking

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, August 23.—The so-called neutral Members of the House of Representatives, headed by Mr. Yung Tze-kuang, have worked out a scheme which they think will result in settling the deadlock regarding the appointment of Dr. W. W. Yen as Premier. Having in mind the fact that the Opposition has recently insisted upon cancellation of the appointment of Dr. Wellington Koo as Taili Premier (which would have left the Government open to the charge of unconstitutional action) as a preliminary to voting on Dr. Yen's nomination, the Neutrals propose to have this cancellation motion and the appointment of Dr. Yen placed on the agenda of the House for the same day. Then when the House meets, the cancellation motion would come forward first and be referred to the Investigation Committee for investigation and report. The Committee would not submit its report for several days, and the vote on the appointment of Dr. Yen would be taken immediately the House referred the first motion to the committee.

The promoters of this scheme will meet representatives of the Government Party and the Opposition this afternoon. If this meeting proves satisfactory the scheme will be referred to Dr. Yen.

RESERVES

IN a letter to a policyholder, Darwin P. Kingsley, President of the New York Life Insurance Company, describes life insurance legal reserves as follows:—

"RESERVES are the fund accumulated by direction of law to redeem the bonds of the company as they mature. Your policy is a bond which will mature like a municipal bond or a government bond at a fixed date, or at that uncertain date when death draws your name from the urn. When your name comes up, the money must be ready."

Mr. Patricio Murphy, who has been making arrangements in connection with Zanni's flight, heard of the latter's disaster while en route from Weihaiwei to Japan, via Tientsin. Immediately on his arrival Tientsin he communicated with Zanni, and from him received instructions to proceed to Japan forthwith, and re-embark the aeroplane that was to be used for the second stage of the flight. The aeroplane will be taken to Hanoi. Mr. Murphy left for Japan on the 21st.

It is reported that a syndicate has been formed composed of prominent Shanghai residents to construct a modern up-to-date hotel in Tsingtao. The hotel, according to preliminary plans is to consist of 100 rooms each with bath and all modern conveniences such as telephones in each room, motor car service to town, library, billiard and card rooms. The hotel will be located on the beach and one entire wing will be set aside for families with children. The hotel will be so constructed, according to the promoters, that it may be extended as required. The unprecedented crowds of foreigners and Chinese which have flocked to Tsingtao this summer resulting in overcrowding of present hotel accommodations are responsible for the present move to provide a new hotel, it is said.

Mr. M. Nemon, a journalist, and Mr. A. Clias, an artist, both Russians, arrived in Hankow on Wednesday evening in the course of a walking tour around the world. The two travellers set out from Tientsin to Peking, whence they departed on their first stage to Hankow on July 19, covering the 1,213 kilometer in 24 days. Many difficulties were encountered due to the floods, and in one case where a bridge had been carried away they had a very dangerous swim across a flooded river. From Hankow they will proceed to Canton and thence to Saigon and Calcutta, following a direct route to Europe almost along the same line as that taken by the world fliers.

Improvements Made By Nast College

(China Press Correspondence)

Kiukiang, August 21.—The William Nast College at Kiukiang is planning to very extensively enlarge its facilities for this year's student body. Work has been going on busily all summer, making needed repairs so that the Dormitories and class room buildings present a new appearance. A new marble bathroom has been installed. New and improved beds and desks are now being installed and the new Athletic field has been comed.

The faculty of the Middle School and Primary School has been much strengthened and will present a very strong body this year. It includes four missionaries and their wives, two American returned students and a larger number of college graduates and an old master under the Chinese system. Most of the English in the schools will be taught by foreigners and the science department equipment, which makes this department able to offer extensive laboratory work.

A large athletic program is to be inaugurated under the direction of three athletic directors, two of them being foreign and the third a returned student. Every student in the institution will be required to participate in some form of athletics for one hour each day and will be held responsible just as for other class work.

It is planned to make the athletic field available for customs and business organisations from 5 to 6 P.M. each evening in order to bring about the greatest use of these advantages by the largest number of people possible.

Moving pictures of a high class will be shown regularly for purposes of education and recreation. The plan now is to have these shows twice a week and make them available to outsiders as well as students.

A new dormitory is under construction to receive the students of the Primary School and should be completed in time to use during the second semester.

Once Overs

BY J. J. MUNDY

Do you find it difficult to look in the eye the person with whom you talk?

As time goes on, it grows correspondingly difficult.

Finally you have reached a point where it is next to impossible for you to look steadily at anyone with whom you converse.

Those who have known you for years may be able to excuse this as a peculiarity of yours, but others will think you are ashamed of your past.

If you are ashamed of your past, you do not wish to advertise the fact.

If you are clear in your conscience, why allow a habit to belie you.

Look squarely at the person to whom you speak.

Allay any suspicion which may have arisen among those who know you that there is something "shady" about you, by looking at them frankly.

Center your eyes on the face of the one with whom you converse.

Shifty eyes cause an unfavorable opinion to be aroused.

Perhaps you have merely formed this bad habit through diffidence.

But it should make you courageous, when you realise that you must look at those whom you meet in conversation, else they may have reason to question.

HO TUNGS ARE ENTERTAINED AT STUDENTS' MEET

Embassy Official At London Pays High Tribute To Sir Robert

(Reuter's Service)

London, Aug. 26.—Sir Robert and Lady Ho Tung and their son and daughter were the guests of honor at a reception yesterday at Highleigh, Hertfordshire, where the annual conference of the Central Union of Chinese Students in Britain is being held.

Mr. Chu Chao-hsin, the Chinese Charge d'Affaires, who presided, addressed the students. He described Sir Robert Ho Tung as a great philanthropist and patriot keenly interested in the welfare of the Fatherland. Lady Ho Tung had done much to increase the silk industry in China.

Sir Robert Ho Tung, in his reply, thanked the students for their kind reception and expressed admiration at their enterprise in coming so far to seek knowledge. He urged them to try and maintain the best traditions of China. Great opportunities awaited them for promoting the welfare of China as doctors, health experts and teachers and there were also many opportunities in the development of the latent potentialities of China in mining, road-making, railway construction, inland navigation and waterworks. Mechanical development, Sir Robert said, was still in its infancy. He concluded by exhorting the students to do all in their power to help China to maintain her position among the great nations of the world. The most important thing was to do one's duty to the country for the benefit of the human race.

Could he love and honor a woman who brazenly, callously confessed she was out to dig while the spade was sharp and the digging good See:

Mr. Theo. Siemssen Is Victim Of Assault Committed By Robber

(China Press Correspondence)

Foochow, Aug. 20.—Instances of highway robbery are multiplying. Between 8:30 and 9 on the night of the 18th a dastardly attack was made on Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Siemssen who were out walking on the Island of Nantai not far from the foreign settlement. As they approached the "Stone Seat" about a mile from the Center, they noticed a man walking ahead of them. He tried to enter into conversation and had noticed Mrs. Siemssen's wrist watch. He assaulted Mrs. Siemssen and succeeded in tearing off the wrist watch.

Mr. Siemssen, in trying to defend his wife, was stabbed, although he did not realise it until later. He went in pursuit of the highwayman, but could not catch him. The blade entered from in front of the right shoulder, and the wound bled profusely. Mr. and Mrs. Siemssen then walked toward home and when they reached Magow Hospital he collapsed. He was carried into the hospital and Dr. Moorhead was sent for. Examination convinced the doctor that the wound was fortunately not serious.

It is reported that two other robberies occurred the same night, one at about 7 o'clock and the other at nearly midnight, and in very nearly the same place. Not far off is a detachment of northern soldiers, stationed there for the protection of the people and to secure the peace of the community. Mr. Siemssen's would be slayer spoke the northern dialect.

As to the military situation—General Kao I, stationed at Ch'uan Chow has been fighting Tuli Chao's troops. At the same time Lu Hsing-p'ang commanding some 20,000 men, has stopped the advance of Shun's soldiers somewhere between Shui K'ou and Yen Ping and has cut off telegraphic communication. This would account for the continued occupation of Yen Shan Ch'iao by Sun's troops. It is reported that the plan is for Tsang and Yang in Chekiang to attack Meng Chiao-yueh. Sun's most trusty commander at Yen P'ing, while Lu Hsing-p'ang engages Sun and Chou in the district below Yen P'ing.

Among the generals attending the recent military conference at the call of General Sun, was the commander of the 3rd Division, Wong Hsien-sh'en. General Wong formerly assisted General Kao I against Tsang Chih-p'ing and Yang Huo-chiao. He had planned to leave Foochow for Ch'uan Chow last Friday, the 15th, but was suddenly and unexpectedly arrested and has been kept under "a comfortable arrest" ever since. The reason for this arrest was Wong might once more go to the assistance of Kao I should he be permitted to return to his headquarters at Ch'uan Chow. Besides it is known that Wong is allied with Lu Yung-hsiang of Chekiang.

278 American Veterans Apply For Bonus Forms

Veterans of the World War in China have lost no time in availing themselves of the "adjusted compensation" voted to them by Congress in recognition of their war services. The American Red Cross in Shanghai already has received 278 applications for the bonus forms which it is distributing.

In addition to individual applications received the American Red Cross has supplied the American Legion Post in Peking with 40 forms for its members; Tientsin's post has received 65 forms: Gordon L. Burke of Swatow has applied for and received 6 forms for American veterans in China: the American Consulate, Changsha, 3 forms.

The bonus takes the form of an endowment insurance policy, maturing in 20 years for the amount that the adjusted service credit increased by 25 percent would purchase "if applied for that purpose as a single net premium, calculated in accordance with accepted actuarial principles and based upon the American Experience Table of Mortality and interest at 4 percent per annum, compounded annually." The policy which the Government will issue is payable at the death of the insured to the beneficiary he may name or to himself if living at the end of the 20 year period, but he may borrow upon it after it has been in force two years. The amount of the policy will vary with the age of the insured and the length of his service, and it is estimated that the average policy will have a value of G.$962. The cost of the insurance bonus system to the Government for the first year is estimated at G.$130,000,000 and for the 20 year period about G.$114,000,000 a year, above the cost of operation. This scheme is generally considered a desirable settlement of the problem, for it postpones for 20 years the necessity of making a large payment out of the treasury for the bonus, and even when the 20 years elapse and the policy matures it will be found that a large number of policies have been matured through the deaths of policy holders.

old woodens ships and start with steel ships out there. He is the only one of the old crew who kept up with developments."

Speaking of his present trip, Mr. Kyne said he expected it to be another year before he would be back home. He is under contract with the United Feature Syndicate and with the Hearst magazines, his stories now appearing in the "Cosmopolitan." In addition, the writer is completing a 60,000-word novel of which he has already worked out the main plot.

With regard to his completed work, Mr. Kyne agrees with the critics in pronouncing 'Kindred of the Dust' his best. As for work to be accomplished, he expects to get much material here. "Shanghai is a wonderful place for shipping," he said. "It is one of the greatest and most cosmopolitan ports in the world. Here we have the shipping of all nations assembled. I have already gotten some fine impressions and some excellent stories here."

Mr. Kyne could not praise too highly the Dollar round-the-world ships. "Best ships I've ever been on," he said. "Finest service I've met in the world. Particularly good are the big well-furnished cabins so excellently ventilated. The ships are ideally fitted for the round-the-world service."

The novelist is leaving Shanghai on the "President Van Buren" on September 26, for "points south." He will be the guest of honor at a tiffin to be given today at the Union Club by American journalists here.

Rockefeller Report Shows Growth Of Medical Study

The ninth annual report of the China Medical Board, to the Rockefeller Foundation, covering the period from January 1 to December 1, 1923, is particularly interesting for its notes on the marked progress made in the field of premedical education in China, and on the admission of women to the Shantung Christian University School of Medicine at Tsinan. This medical college with which the Board has been co-operating since 1916 received an important reinforcement in 1923 through the consummation of the plans for merging with it the North China Union Medical College for Women, previously maintained at Peking as an independent institution.

This adds to the supporters of the school two strong bodies of women, the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and the Women's Committee of the Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian church in the United States. As a part of their contribution toward the joint enterprise the women's organisations undertook to add five teachers to the staff during the first year and to provide funds for new buildings and equipment made necessary by the transfer of women teachers and students. The China Medical Board contributed $50,000 toward a total of $165,000 for new dormitories, residences and equipment and for the extension or alteration of the hospital and school buildings.

The first women students were admitted at the opening of the fall term and other classes were to be transferred during the winter.

The beginning of coeducation here as in other institutions does not appear to have caused any special complications in spite of the relative novelty of the idea in the Orient.

Premedical education in China received a decided boost through the provision of better laboratories and equipment for the teaching of physics, chemistry, and biology in colleges of arts and science. There are now several institutions in China which are as well equipped in this respect as many small colleges of good standing in the States.

St. John's University in Shanghai formally opened its new laboratory building in June, 1923. Ginling College at Nanking, one of the best institutions in China for women, occupied in the fall of 1923 a group of fine new buildings, including a fire-proof science hall. The China Medical Board contributed generously to both of these institutions. Nankai University in Tientsin, Peking (Yenching) University, the National Southeastern University at Nanking, the Fukien Christian University at Foochow, the Canton Christian College, the College of Yale in China at Changsha and many other institutions either received funds from the China Medical Board or pledges of funds for the improvement of their premedical facilities.

FLOOD RELIEF FUND URGENTLY NEEDED, CLAIM

Report Tells Of Conditions In Stricken Lands In North

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, August 23.—General Ma Fu-hsiang, Tutung of Suiyuan, and General Chang Hsi-yuan, Tutung of Chahar, have telegraphed to the Government stating that funds are urgently required for flood relief, and asking the Government to take the necessary steps in advance of the surcharges for relief.

Peking, August 23, 1924.—Mr. O. J. Todd, engineer representative of the China International Famine Relief Commission, has just returned from a week's boat trip in the flooded area to the South of Tientsin and Peking. Mr. Todd was accompanied by Mr. C. A. Stanley of the American Board of Missions, Tientsin, and Mr. George Krainukov, a motion picture operator of the British American Tobacco Company. The following extracts, from Mr. Todd's reports to the executive committee, give evidence of the serious situation that faces this vast area between Tientsin and Paotingfu.

"The route taken was from Tientsin up the Sai Ho to the town of Batai, 100 li to the southwest. From there a westerly course was taken through the lakes into the Ta Ching Ho, which stream was followed for the most part into West Lake, the objective point being the City of An Jou (An Hsin) the county seat of An Hsin Hsien.

"In the course of this trip data was gathered continually regarding the stage of water as compared with that of 1917, and the statement that in West Lake region the high water of August 3rd to 10th was 2 ft. higher than that of the maximum height of 1917 found general endorsement.

"On my previous trip to this same city on August 1st the statement was then made that the water was up to a point 6" lower than the 1917 high mark. Every evidence that we found on this trip, indicated that there had been a rise of another 8 ft. or more; while on August 1st, 120 out of 150 towns of An Hsien were under water, at present the entire county is inundated, the main dike on the North of West Lake having been over-topped.

"At the city of An Jou we called on the Police Commissioner and found him busy in the temple grounds, where he was superintending the housing and feeding of approximately 900 refuges women and children, whom he had brought in from the adjoining villages. Rowing out past many of these villages we found the water to be into the houses and the people living on roof tops. Where wave action endangered the buildings the people had been removed to the city of An Jou and Shi Hsien. These whole regions from Paotingfu on to Tientsin and to the North of the great Wen An Wa dike is a great lake.

"Fall crops are drowned almost totally throughout this region. Hemp, that was nearly ready to harvest and which has been covered with from 6 to 10 ft. of water, is being rescued from boats by divers who dive down and pull it out by the roots, afterwards taking it to other villages in small boats. The reed crop, which is considered valuable for mat making, roofing and fuel, has been injured to a great extent, for under ideal conditions reed should be grown with a small amount of water around the roots.

"To the south of the great Wen An We dike the region is being gradually inundated from water coming from the Putaho, 100 li to the South of Suchow. 50 li north of Wen An Shin we found the water rising at the rate of 2" per day, but still 3 ft. lower than in 1917, due to the fact that this Northern dike has been well patrolled and has not yet broken. However, the City of Wen An Shin is surrounded by water, although crops in the Northwest portion of the county are being protected and are on higher ground so that they should be harvested with no difficulty.

"Little distress was noted, due to the fact that there probably is a small food supply left over from last year and the spring wheat crop, which appears to have yilded 50 to 100 catties per mow, which is 50% of a normal crop. While this supply lasts the inundated population will get on fairly well, although there are many portions of this region that do not raise wheat and so they have been entirely depending on the Fall crop which is a total failure throughout the most of this region.

The only occupation of these people at the present time is a little shipping, fishing, and mat weaving. This furnishes employment for a comparatively small portion of the population."

Dr. Paul Monroe To Make Wide Educational Survey

The problem of the education of American children in the Orient has at last been presented so convincingly at home that according to reports just received here, the Rockefeller Foundation interests are lending attentive ears to the subject. Dr. Paul Monroe, educational expert, formerly director of Teachers College of Columbia University, New York, now director of the International Institute of Education, and probably the greatest living authority on the history of education, is in China at present in the interests of various educational projects. Among these are the disposal of distribution of the newly returned portion of the American Boxer indemnity and, it is authoritatively stated, the study of conditions surrounding the education of American children in the Orient. Dr. Monroe will spend some time in making this survey and report, which, it is presumed, will be handed over to the Rockefeller Foundation through the International Institute of Education, of which he is director. It is likely that Dr. Monroe will make a preliminary survey on this trip and return in January to study the problem more comprehensively.

Dr. Monroe is well known here by reason of his previous visits to China, the last previous one of which occurred in 1922 when he came here as a member of the Educational Commission at the invitation of the Chinese government and spent six months in studying conditions and advising the Chinese government on its educational problems. At that time he encouraged the organisation of the National Educational Association, a semi-official Chinese Educational institution now.

Dr. Monroe is editor of the "Encyclopedia of Education," a leading work of its kind, and several other standard works on the history of education.

The noted educator, who is now in Peking, is being entertained there by His Excellency, Dr. V. K. Wellington Koo, the Chinese Minister of Foreign Affairs. During his stay in the Northern city he will hold conferences with Mr. Fan Yuan-lien, president of the Higher Normal School and former Minister of Education; Mr. Yuan Shih-kao, former vice-minister of education; Mr. Chang Po-ling, president of Nanking College; Mr. Yun Hsiang-tsan, president of Tsing Hwa college and several other noted educators who will exchange opinions with him as to the best and most profitable use to which the American returned Boxer indemnity may be put.

Toyo Kisen Kaisha Service Explained

The local offices of the Toyo Kisen Kaisha announced yesterday that although through bills of lading are being issued without trans-shipment at San Francisco on the company's steamers, Korea Maru and Siberia Maru, the company is unable to issue through passage tickets, and the terminal port on the voyage to America is therefore San Francisco, as heretofore.

In the reverse direction, the company is issuing through passenger transportation from Los Angeles to Oriental ports at the same fare as from San Francisco. Passengers are not obliged to trans-ship, as the steamers remain only one day at San Francisco.

The first class fare from Los Angeles or San Francisco to Shanghai is G.$346.00. No particulars have been received here with regard to second and third class rates, but it is expected that there will be a small supplementary charge.

To Observe September 28 As Anti-Opium Sunday

In connection with the National Anti-Opium Movement, the National Christian Council of China has recently issued a circular to the 8,000 churches throughout China asking them to observe the 28th of September as Anti-Opium Sunday. Suggestions are made also as to ways for expressing public opinion against the opium traffic. Below is a translation of parts of this letter:

"It is the duty of Christian men and women to stand against this great peril. For this reason the Council has co-operated with more than thirty organisations of national and local nature in Shanghai such as the Council on Health Education, the General Chamber of Commerce, the Association for the Advancement of Education, the National Medical Association, Red Cross Societies and others, to organise the National Anti-Opium Association.

"The object of this organisation is two-fold: 1. To work internationally in supporting the International Anti-Opium Conference to be called at Geneva in November of this year. The purpose of this conference is to limit the amount of production of opium and morphia, cocaine, and other narcotic drugs to the quantity actually needed for medicinal and scientific purposes and to stop the importation of these narcotic drugs. 2. Within China this organisation is to co-operate with the different local organisations in starting a national movement to express the united opposition of the people toward opium and to back up the government in enforcing the laws regarding the production and transportation of opium.

"Now the date of the Geneva Conferences draws near. We must not lose any time in starting this national movement. September 28 has been decided upon for the National Anti-Opium Sunday. The Council earnestly requests the churches throughout China to observe this day and report the results before October 5 to this office, so that we can supply the people's delegates to Geneva with this information. Knowing that all Christians have a firm conviction against opium, we hope that this note will arouse your great interest. Herewith we send you several suggestions regarding the way to observe this important day.

"1. State what attitude the Christians have toward opium.

"2. Express the people's opinion through the pulpit. We believe that no matter how serious the opium situation is, if the public opinion stands firmly against it we can easily put a stop to this opium traffic.

"3. The recrudescence of opium in China was due to the fact that a great amount of narcotic drugs was used for anaesthetic purposes in treating wounded soldiers. That resulted in the increase of opium production. Since the European War these great amounts of opium have become useless and so rascals of different nations smuggled these drugs into China. Many military officers and business men were attracted to this business on account of the great profits to be made. The result has been that the planting of opium has become widespread.

"4. Opium has become an international problem. Millions of persons in Europe and America have formed the habit of using morphia. It is the duty of us Christians to co-operate with the people of the different nations to do away with this international problem.

"5. The Geneva Conference of this year is to study the problem of opium cultivation and the way to diminish the amount of production to the necessary quantity needed for medicinal and scientific purposes. We the people of China must express our attitude in support of this great cause.

"6. What shall we Christians do?

A. Enlist the co-operation of all local Christian and non-Christian organisations to support the work of the Geneva Conference.

"B. Enlist all Christian and non-Christian organisations to stop the planting of opium in any local places.

C. Report the real opium situation in different places to this office and stir up public opinion to enforce the laws governing the production and transportation of opium and in this way try to make every local center a clean place, free of opium traffic and production.

D. Enlist the co-operation of Christian and non-Christian hospitals and charity organisations to start an opium sanitarium so that we can help the smokers to free themselves of their habit.

"All reports are to be addressed to the National Christian Council."

Big Rail Merger In U. S. Approved

(Reuter's American Service)

New York, August 26.—The directors of the Erie Railroad have approved the offer of the Van Schweringen interests to consolidate the Erie Railroad in the proposed billion-and-a-half Nickel Plate railway system. The action of the Erie Railroad practically completes the plans of the proposed merger.

Arsenal and the Chapel barracks were allowed after midnight without giving the pass word.

In a final effort to avert the coming conflict, members of the Kiangsu and Chekiang gentry in Shanghai, including the chairman and the vice-chairman of the Nanking Chamber of Commerce met at the Bank of Communications yesterday afternoon and decided to make a final appeal to the militarists of the two provinces for an amicable settlement for their political troopers.

Representatives were sent to both Nanking and Hangchow last night to approach Generals Lu Yung-hsiang and General Chi Hsieh-yuan to present a simple plan whereby war can be averted for the moment. The plan calls for the withdrawal of troops of both sides from the border line so that the belligerents will be in a safe distance from each other.

Meanwhile, plans are being rapidly completed by the Chinese Red Cross Headquarters at Shanghai to perform relief work in case fighting actually starts. Dr. William New and Dr. W. S. New have been appointed field directors and they assumed their office formally yesterday. It is the plan of the Doctors to put at least four moving units in the field of operation in the shortest possible time. Each unit will have at least three doctors, four nurses and a number of coolies.

BASE HOSPITALS

A number of base hospitals will be established along both the railway lines. Plans along the Nanking line were completed yesterday. There will be hospitals in Soochow, Wusih, Changchow and Chinkiang. Dr. W. S. New expects to communicate with the local hospitals in Kashing, Changsu and other important centers along the Hangchow line today.

Locally, the Red Cross Hospital on Avenue Haig, the Thibet Road and Tientsin Road Hospitals will be available for the wounded, said Dr. New last night. And in case of necessity, temporary sheds can be constructed within 48 hours on a vacant lot in Siccawei village to care for several hundred additional patients. Dr. New says that his detachments have been amply provided with supplies and have already secured the necessary insignia for their active work in the field of battle.

PRESSED INTO SERVICE

A Chinese correspondent, writing from Nanking yesterday to THE CHINA PRESS, stated that the military authorities were forcing civilians to join the army. On Monday morning, he was the eye-witness of an attempt by the soldiery to drag a man out of his employment in a shop at Hsiakwun and press him into service. When the man refused, two soldiers gave him a thorough beating.

In the afternoon, according to the correspondent, another man was whipped by soldiers near the street called Chang Ching Lou, because he had refused to be recruited on the ground that he was employed by a foreign household. The soldiers were rounding up civilians and asking them to show cause why they should not serve in the army.

According to the Dah Tong News Agency, Fengtien troops have increased in Tsincheng and Kingsih. A conference by the Joint Bureau of the General Staff and the Ministry of War decided to send portions of the ninth and thirteenth division to Chaoyang and Talingho along the Jehol border as a measure of precaution.

The Fengtien move is significant, if the report is true, because it indicates that Mukden may participate in the coming conflict if war is actually declared between Kiangsu and Chekiang.

The price of rice took a leap of a dollar yesterday as a result of the political situation. In the event of actual fighting, the supply may be cut as practically all grain for Shanghai comes from Changchow, Wusih and Changsho located in the midst of the war zone. The commandeering of rice ships by the Kiangsu authorities is causing anxiety among the rice merchants here, who will meet in extraordinary session tomorrow to devise means of relieving the situation.

(Eastrn News Agency)

Foochow, August 25.—Under pretext of inspecting local conditions and troops, General Sun Chuan-fang left here for Yenping this afternoon at 4 o'clock. Despite various rumors regarding the movement of General Sun and the relations between General Sun and General Chou Yin-jen, no confirmation is obtainable as yet owing to complicated circumstances.

(Eastern News Agency)

Tientsin, August 25.—According to a statement made by an influential member of Marshal Tuan Chi-jui's faction, the number of the Chihli troops, who can be mobilised against Chekiang, is about the same as that of the Chekiang forces, in view of the rumor that Marshal Chang Tso-lin will rise in arms against Chihli, in co-operation with General Lu Yung-hsiang.

(Eastern News Agency)

Peking, August 25.—Mr. Sun Pao-chi, ex-Premier, left here southward this morning, his object being, it is reported, to mediate in his private capacity between General Chi Hsieh-yuan, Tuchun of Kiangsu, and General Lu Yung-hsiang, Tuchun of Chekiang.

Heavy Imports Are Levied In Canton

teachers and students must join them or be liable to be dealt with. At first the teachers only of the higher schools were asked to join the Kuomintang, but now all the primary teachers have to do so or be subject to dismissal. To muzzle further public opinion, all newspapers and printing shops have been put under censorship in order, it is said, to avoid exciting attention to the coming intention of the Kuomintang to nationalise all land and buildings in Canton after August 31, on the pretext that they have not been registered again as ordered. To destroy all possible opposition, the Kuomintang Government may declare all village and town volunteer corps rebels against Dr. Sun Yat-sen and proceed to outlaw them all by giving its members a free hand in taking over control of the movement. The seizure of lawfully imported arms and the opposition by the Kuomintang to the amalgamation of the Provincial Volunteers are believed to be but preliminary steps to the subjugation of the whole Cantonese people under Kuomintang control. But Cantonese will oppose this and organisation to do so is being considered, and will soon be completed.

Our Advertising

May be copied, our methods imitated,
But O.I.C. Service can never be equalled in the fitting of Comfortable-Becoming Classes at Reasonable Prices

Established two decades by one of the first foreign opticians in Shanghai, we are the first extensive and Largest Optical Advertisers in the Orient.

We were first to incorporate the Service of Oculist—Optometrist—Optician together with our own completely equipped manufacturing laboratory on the premises.

The O.I.C. has grown faster than any other local optician.

We were first to formulate and publish a Standard Guarantee of both our Examination and Glasses.

We were first to inaugurate a standard "one price" system on all frames—with prices marked in plain figures.

We were first to offer Genuine Sir Wm. Crookes' Toric Lenses ground to any prescription for $5.00 per pair, when others charge from $15 to $25.00. We were first to institute a repair Service whereby we duplicate and replace any broken lense for $1.00—regardless of the prescription in genuine Toric, Flat, White or Crookes Glass.

We were first to inaugurate "No charge for Small Repairs"—"Lense Duplicated while you wait"—"Cases and Antiseptic Cleaners Free"—"No charge for adjustments—Springs or Screws." Proof That O.I.C. is appreciated is in the fact that the leading business and professional men in China, including our Municipal Councillors are sponsors of O.I.C. Service and wearers of O.I.C. France's Present Leader Is Called "Man Of Men"

Paris, July 19.—"Poincare a man of documents. Herriot a man of men." So a French writer sums up the difference between the two Premiers.

Certainly something like a great breath of warm air has swept through the political corridors of France and of Europe since the Herriot ministry has come into power. Not since the end of the peace conference has there been such going and coming at the French Foreign Office of men who know things. The difference between this and the Poincare regime is striking.

DIFFERENCE BETWEEN THE TWO MEN

When Poincare wanted to know about something he sent for a report and digested its pages in the chill solitude of his study. When Herriot wants to know about the same thing he sends for the man who wrote the report and talks with him.

He knew when he came into office that two of his problems would be reparations and security. He did not send for all the documents on reparations and all the reports on German armaments as his predecessor would have done. But he appointed to the post of his private secretary Monsieur Bergery, the man who for five years has been secretary general of the reparations commission, and as his Minister of War, General Nollet, who has for five years been the chief of the allied disarmament commission in Berlin.

Bergery knows all that any human being knows about what the reparations commission has done.

GENERAL NOLLET KNOWS ALL ABOUT IT

General Nollet, as head of the disarmament commission, lived five years in Berlin and has made his inspections in every part of Germany. He knows to the last rifle, airplane cylinder and machine gun barrel how much German armament his commission has destroyed. And he knows all that anybody knows about the secret efforts of the German war party to recreate German military power.

Herriot has both of these men at his side.

Poincare had neither. He had their reports.

Another crucial question for Herriot to handle will be France's relations with Russia. But he is forming his policy on this question as well by contact with men instead of documents and theories. Within three days after he had installed himself in the Quay d'Orsay as Premier and Foreign Minister he called his first conference with Frenchmen who had property interests in Russia. A second meeting is to be held within a week. Another conference is scheduled with holders of Russian government bonds sold in France before the war. In this way Herriot is putting himself in the most direct possible contact with the French people who will be affected by his policy toward Russia.

BROUGHT RUSSIA TO GREAT EXPOSITION

Two years ago he went to Russia himself as representative of the Lyons Fair, the great international trade sales exposition which he organized in his own city. On that trip he made personal contact with every important member of the Russian government. He knows them and they know him. He let them know plainly that he had no use for a dictatorship, communist or otherwise.

But that did not prevent him from bringing back to the Lyons Fair an exhibit of Russian furs and raw materials that occupied 110 stands and was the largest single display at the fair.

Everybody who could possibly have anything important to say about the coming conference with MacDonald was called in and heard. The Belgian Foreign Minister came rushing up from Geneva. The German Ambassador at Paris was called in and told that his country now had a chance, but that she would have to make use of it in good faith and that unless she showed a real desire to co-operate she would receive no better treatment than she had received from Poincare. He was told that on one point France would be absolutely unyielding, that Germany must accept and co-operate with the Allied Mission for the control of German armaments.

WHEN GERMANY SHOWS GOOD FAITH

He was told that as long as Germany refused to do this the allies could have no faith in her peaceful intentions. On the other hand Herriot assured Germany that once Germany showed good faith she would receive the maximum of cordial treatment from the French.

The German Ambassador, Herr von Hoesch, was convinced. And while Herriot was gone to London, Von Hoesch hurried to Berlin to urge Chancellor Marx and Foreign Minister Stresemann to accept without reservations the resumption of interallied arms control and to do everything they could to calm down the bitter campaign of the nationalist press.

The first tangible result to the Germans of Herriot's conciliatory attitude was the immediate amnesty for the Germans who had been imprisoned by the French in the Ruhr for obeying orders of their own government. Among these prisoners were telegraph clerks, who had refused to transmit telegrams for the French army during the early days of the occupation. They were between the devil and the deep sea. If they worked for the French the Germans would arrest them. If they did not work for the French the French would arrest them.

Their release is of no importance strategically. But it is at least a gesture of generosity and one which the Germans cannot interpret as a gesture of weakness.

THE WAY POINCARE REASONED ABOUT GERMANY

Poincare was incapable of such a thing. With his cold lawyer's mind untempered by human warmth he could only reason:

"But they were sentenced for a definite term. To release them before its expiration is a negation of the text of the law and of the courts."

It is too early to be sure that Herriot's method is the proper one for the solution of Europe's problems. But it has already changed the atmosphere. That is something.

Poincare was in power two years, two months and five days. During that time not one step was made toward real peace in Europe. Whether the Ruhr occupation was a total failure or not in still debatable. It certainly was not much of a success. In spite of the highest claims made by its champions, some of whom insist that the occupation earned a profit. Poincare's government was unable to enter one cent from the Ruhr on the national budget.

Adherents of the Poincare system say that at least Poincare assured France's security. Yet it is only since the reign of force inaugurated by Poincare that Germany's wave of nationalism and the renaissance of militarism became menacing, that Germany refused longer to submit to the inspection of her factories and army camps by allied officers and began secretly to train soldiers and that France's former allies grew cold to her.

Poincare's method has shown it cannot lead Europe toward peace. Maybe Herriot's method will be no more successful. But in its beginnings Europe is feeling a glow of hope that it has not felt in many, many months.

The unevenness a characterised American since 1921 has not been due to lack of credit. The problem is the adjustment of production and consumption. Widespread information as to probable supply and demand and the disposition to heed it have resulted in a persistent policy of hand-to-mouth buying. Business has been by fits and starts. This is trying and costs have been rendered higher thereby but the consequence is a situation which is fundamentally sound. It is obvious, however, that under these circumstances money rates can not be the dominant factor in the business outlook.

COMMERCIAL PAPER

On July 15, the renewal rate on call loans was 2 percent. The official rate for new money was also 2 percent, but most new loans were made at the outside rate of 1½ percent. Four-to-six-months' time money was offered at 3¼ percent, and there was a fair demand at that rate.

Not much commercial paper is being offered. The rate on prime names is 3¼ to 3½ percent.

The broker's selling rate on prime bankers' 90-day acceptances is 2 percent.

Liberty bond prices declined during the last few days immediately preceding July 15 and the advance in other class of securities halted. The impetus given the market by recent declines in money rates apparently has spent itself, the urgent pressure of funds for investment having been satisfied for the time being.

New issues continue to be in smaller volume than might be expected at the attractive rates now prevailing. Apparently for the present at least, demand for funds from municipalities and other governmental agencies is fairly well satisfied. In instances where railways and other public utilities could use more money, most of them would unquestionably prefer that further financing should take the form of stock issues, rather than further increase in interest-bearing debt. At present, most industrial concerns whose obligations would be readily marketable are not in pressing need of funds, and it seems probable therefore that unless heavy governmental refinancing should occur because of low interest rates, new security offerings will continue to be moderate in amount.

Fear Teapot Dome Oil Is Menaced By Underground Lake

The Teapot Dome region presents several baffling problems to the oil engineer as well as to the politician. Although oil experts have been investigating for some forty years, the future of the supply is still in doubt. Some geologists and engineers believe that the rich oil supply of the region is menaced by subterranean streams or lakes, while others predict a rich yield for many years.

The geological formation, deep down below the surface of Teapot Dome, seems to be unusual. The actual area of oil-producing land in Wyoming is about 9,000 acres. It is necessary to bore to a depth of from 2,000 to 3,000 feet to reach the oil-bearing strata. In the early days the wells did not go far enough down, and the yield was correspondinghy small. The suface of the Teapot Dome region is covered with sand and shale. Further down there are great masses of bedded clay. At a lower depth sand and clay are mixed with water and the digging becomes much more difficult.

Reaching a depth of some 2,000 feet, the drillers commonly strike great supplies of gas held far beneath the earth's surface under pressure. Let the drill pierce the shell which holds this gas, and it rushes to the surface high above carrying the oil along with it. Reaching the surface, the momentum carries the oil high in the air, and the well becomes a "gusher." There is a great advantage in striking such a pocket, since the gas does the work of expensive pumping apparatus in bringing the oil to the surface.

Several geologists who have studied the Teapot Dome believe that a level floor of hard material lies below the oil at a depth of perhaps several thousand feet. Also, they believe that in the general region of this oil field lies a great subterranean supply of water, held in check by the floor. At present the oil coming to the surface is pure, but it is feared that as it is drawn off water will slowly but steadily flow in to take its place.

Predicts Vast Mineral Discoveries In Canada

In the rush now under way to the Canadian gold field of the Roun area, in the Province of Quebec, mining engineers and investors are using aircraft to get into the wilderness as quickly as possible. Miners and prospectors are going by canoe and portages, a hard journey, but capitalists and engineers are making the trip by hydroplanes, and the Laurentide Air Service has established a flight schedule.

Planes carrying five persons each meet Canadian Pacific trains at Anglers, twelve or fifteen miles from Cobalt. They cover the forty-seven-mile air route to the new mining region in forty-five minutes. Each passenger is limited to a certain weight of baggage and the fare is $50, Hydro "specials" may be chartered to travel thirty-two miles or less for $150, carrying from one to four passengers.

This new thing in the modern exploration of mineral territories was mentioned in the course of an interview by Louis D. Huntoon, formerly Professor of Mining and Metallurgy at Yale University, now a consulting mining engineer of New York, who has made many trips of inspection to important mining centers of the Dominion in the past twelve years.

Few Americans," he said, "have any notion of the great developments that have been going on in the great country north of our own. It was not so long ago that people in general thought of Canada's future wealth in terms of wheat and timber and fish. In my judgment Canada is destined to become one of the richest countries on earth because of its enormous deposits of gold, silver, nickel and copper.

"The deposits referred to are located in what geologists call the pre-Cambrian formation, which extends from the shores of Greenland and Labrador into the Dominion of Canada and covers vast portions of Quebec, Ontario, parts of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and the Northwest territories up the mouth of the Mackenzie River."

FORMATION RICH IN METAL

Mr. Huntoon continued:

"In this pre-Cambrian formation occur the iron ore deposits of Lake Superior; the Sudbury, Ontario, nickel deposits, which today are producing approximately 90 percent of the world's output, and the great silver deposits of Cobalt, South Lorraine and Gowganda. The Cobalt area alone, which has just celebrated the twentieth anniversary of its opening, has produced a total of 300,000,000 ounces of silver valued at $200,000,000 and has paid in dividends and bonuses a total of $88,000,000. The Cobalt area is still producing at the rate of 10,000,000 ounces of silver annually.

"The recent wonderful discoveries of silver ore in the South Lorraine area are of such magnitude that the Tamiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway is building a spur from Cobalt in order to handle the traffic. When at South Lorraine with other American mining engineers, inspecting the mineral deposits, I saw in one mine a vein having a width of five feet and containing more than 30 percent of silver. This vein so nearly approached a mass of solid silver that difficulty was experienced in blasting it out."

The nickel deposits of Sudbury were discovered by pure accident Mr. Huntoon added, when rock was torn out for a railway cut. In the opening of another railway cut the great extent of cobalt silver deposits was revealed, resulting in the Cobalt rush years ago, although the presence of some silver ore had been reported previously.

Turning from nickel and silver to gold mining, Mr. Huntoon mentioned that the Porcupine, Ontario, district produced only a little more than $35,000 in its first year, 1910. Since then it has produced more than $113,000,000. Last year gold from the Porcupine reached $17,000,000. Mr. Huntoon estimates that 1924 will see a Porcupine gold production of $20,000,000.

"The gold belt of the Porcupine area has been traced easterly for many miles," he sad, "and includes Night Hawk Lake, where a cyanide mill has recently been erected, and Lightning River, where there is considerable activity in prospecting. The belt runs still further east into Quebec.

"South of the Porcupine belt, and more or less paralleling it, is the Kirkland Lake belt, which includes the areas known as Shining Tree, Matachewan—an old Hudson Bay post—Kirkland Lake, Larder Lake (near the Quebec boundary) and the Rouyan area, which is in Quebec and further eastward.

GOLD BOOM IN ONTARIO

"At Matachewan six diamond drills are operating, and approximately one hundred men are employed in shaft sinking and general exploratory work. The first shipment from Kirkland Lake was made in 1913, the total production for that year being $85,250. Last year the production was $2,647,630, and I estimate the 1924 production at more than $3,000,000. These two areas, by the way, Porcupine and Kirkland Lake, produce 99.4 percent of all the gold in Ontario. In the Larder Lake area one mill is producing, and reports of Government engineers indicate two large and valuable gold deposits developing, and plans are being drawn up for the erection of mills.

"As yet there is no mill in the Rouyan area. It has been authoritatively stated, however, that diamond drills have shown an ore deposit of coppercarrying gold and silver having a gross value of $7,000,000.

"The importance of developments in the areas of Larder Lake and Rouyan can be appreciated when one realizes that not only is the Timiskaming and Northern Ontario completing a spur to Larder Lake with finished preliminary surveys to Rouyan, but also the C. P. R. has made a preliminary survey from its trunk line to Rouyan.

"Most of the capital invested in the producing miners originated in Toronto and Montreal and is largely held by the original owners. Within a short time, however, there have been reports that English investors are becoming alive to the situation in this north mining country. Strange to say, American investors do not seem to grasp the magnitude of these developments."

When reminded that in past years multitudes of Americans have put small amounts of money in shares of mining concerns with little if any return, Mr. Huntoon nodded assent.

"Any number of so-called mining companies have sold stock to the general public" he said, "Before a man invests in a mining proposition he should obtain all possible information from a competent and independent engineer. We are speaking, however, of producing mines and future prospects in new territory.

"The largest annual producer of gold in the United States is the Homestead mine, South Dakota, which, in 1922, yielded gold to the value of $6,285,317. In that year the largest gold produced in Canada, the Hollinger mine of the Porcupine area, produced $12,247,115. According to official reports and Government estimates, the mines of the United States at present produce just about twice as much gold as the mines of Canada, the most recent figures being, for 1922, American gold, $51,000,000; Canadian gold, $25,294,076. I forecast that in 1928 the gold production of Canada will surpass that of the United States.

"As yet there has been no large gold production from Quebec. Prospectors, miners and investors have been in that region only two or three years. Prospectors entered the Porcupine in 1908, but there was no Porcupine production of any account until 1910, although deposits had been mentioned long before in geological surveys. After preliminary steps had been taken, work was begun in earnest; and from 1910 to the end of 1923 the Porcupine produced gold to the amount of $113,651,229; while Kirkland Lake, from 1913 to the end of 1923, produced a total of $10,321,506 in gold.

"Turning our attention to Manitoba, it may be said that two years or so ago food and other supplies and general equipment were sent in by dog teams over snow and frozen lakes from Las Pas, some ninety miles northward. Specular gold was found, but not in sufficient quantity and grade to be considered, at that time, of commercial value. The region was remote from a railway; there were no roads, and the excitement subsided. Nevertheless, this area contains the pre-Cambrian formation, and quite recently favorable reports have been coming out from prospectors still at work in the vicinity of Herb Lake. When means of transportation have been provided, it is reasonable to expect that ore deposits of value will be found.

"According to offical figures of the Canadian Bureau of Standards, the mines of British Columbia since 1858 have produced $185,898,871 in gold. In 1923 British Columbia gold production was $3,52,041. The Canadian Yukon gold production has fallen from a maximum of $22,275,000 in 1900 to $1,240,806 in 1922.

"In the twenty-three years between 1887 and 1910, Ontario's total gold production was $2,510,692. But since the discovery of the Porcupine and Kirkland Lake areas, from 1911 to 1923 inclusive, Ontario has produced in gold more than $125,000,000, of which $55,398,241 was produced in the last three years. Mines in the Porcupine have been developed to a depth of 2,500 feet, with no decline in value of the ore. In the Kirkland Lake area one mine has been developed to a depth in excess of 1,000 feet, and diamond drill holes have proved the ore to continue 500 feet below, still holding its value.

"Referring to my forecast that within a few years Canada will be producing more gold than the United States, it is of interest to remember that in 1915 the United States production of gold was $101,035,700, and that it has been declining ever since. For the year 1922 the Mint reported a gold production of $48,849,096, and has estimated that for 1923 our gold production will be found to have been about $51,000,000.

"Consider what has been said in this brief survey, than look again at the map showing the vast Canadian teritory embraced by the pre-Cambrian formation. It does not seem unreasonable to expect that in the future Canada will be one of the richest countries on earth, and that her enormous wealth in very large part will result from deposits of gold, copper, nickel and silver ore."

a picture with a theme as old as the ages, yet as modern as to-day's newspaper.

Dwells on an interesting phase of sophisticated society, with the never-ending feminine craving for wealth and luxury.

Adapted from the Belasco stage hit that proved a Broadway sensation.

What The Chinese Papers Are Saying

Peking, August 25.—Following the receipt of reports from their respective consuls in Shanghai on the Kiangsu-Chekiang situation, the ministers of the Diplomatic Corps here delegated the British Minister to call on the Minister of Foreign Affairs and inquire whether it would be possible for the government to furnish protection to foreign lives and property in case there is an outbreak. The British minister also pointed out the fact that in accordance with treaty stipulation, no military operation could take place within a radius of 30 li from Shanghai and that no troops could be transported along the Shanghai-Nanking Railway.—Sin Wan Pao.

Peking, August 25.—The Aviation Corps in Paoting will be removed to Nanking. The equipments will first be sent to the Yungtinmen Station and shipped direct to the Kiangsu capital by the Tientsin-Pukow Railway—Sin Wan Pao.

Peking, August 25.—The American Legation today received cable instructions from Washington, endorsing China's plan to levy a surcharge of 10 percent on the customs tax for the purpose of flood relief.—Sin Wan Pao.

Peking, August 25.—Ex-premier Sun Pao-chi left here for the South today to act as mediator in the Kiangsu-Chekiang political strife.—Sin Wan Pao.

Hongkong, August 25.—Dr. Sun Yat-sen has removed his offices on board the gunboat Yung Feng. In reply to the Canton Government, the Merchant Volunteer Corps has made a counter-proposal of three conditions: 1. Unconditional return of the arms, 2. The organisation of the corps as planned without interference and 3. Cancellation of the warrant issued against Chen Lien-peh and Chen Kung-shou, commander and deputy-commander of the Corps.—Sin Wan Pao.

Nanking, August 25.—For the maintenance of peace and order of the provincial capital, the local Constabulary has organised a corps of special constables, numbering 1,200.—Sin Wan Pao.

Peking, August 25.—All able-bodied men made homeless by the recent flood in Chihli have been recruited by the army. Only the women, children, old and weak are left in the inundated districts. It is feared that no labor will be found for the farms next year.—Shun Pao.

Peking, August 25.—News from American financial circles indicate that negotiations over the Huai River Conservancy Loan have been suspended for fear that the money might be converted to military use. It is understood that discussion on the question will not be resumed until after the settlement of the Kiangsu-Chekiang problem. A demand will be made on the government for the liquidation of the advances already made.—Shun Pao.

Hankow, August 25.—Tuchun Hsiao Yao-nan of Hupeh has telegraphed to Tuli Tsai Cheng-hsun of Kiangsu and Tuli Ma Lien-chia of Anhui, inviting them to join in the mediation between Chekiang and Fukien and avoid bloodshed in the lower Yangtsze region.—Shun Pao.

Tsinan, Aug. 25.—Sun Shih-kwei, Chief of the Railway Guards of the Tientsin-Pukow Railway, today inserted advertisements in the local newspapers, apologising for having assaulted a student named Li Fan-yi.—Shun Pao.

Peking, Aug. 25.—Mr. Hertfand Russell, the English writer, arrived here from Mukden today. A large number of prominent Chinese were at the station to welcome him.—Eastern Times.

Peking, Aug. 25.—Tsao Kun has endorsed the plan of Nanking in the solution of the Chekiang-Kiangsu problem and has authorised Wang Yu-chi, his secretary, to carry out the scheme with Tuchun Chi Hsieh-yuan. However, General Wu Pei-fu is concentrating his attention on the Northeast.—Eastern Times.

Peking, Aug. 25.—The Customs authorities have received a telegram from Tuchun Chi-Hsieh-yuan of Nanking through the Ministry of War, urging for the issuance of permits to transport large quantities of ammunition from the Tehchow Arsenal to Nanking.—Eastern Times.

Peking, Aug. 25.—In response to the urgent request of Tuchun Chi Hsieh-yuan of Nanking, the Aeronautical Department is sending today a number of pilots and four planes to Nanking. A farewell party to the pilots was given by Director Chao Yu-koo last night at the Chi Yin Restaurant. A special train ordered by the Ministry of Communications conveyed the planes along the Tsingpu line.—Shanghai Tribune.

Canton, Aug. 25.—It is reported that General Chen Chiung-ming has marched all his forces into Fukien to attack Changchow and Tingchow and General Liu Tseng-huai has already entered Waichow to reorganise the forces of Yang Kwen-ju. It is understood that the action was taken following the request of General Lu Yung-hsiang of Chekiang for Chen to assist Chekiang in checking the hostile movements of Fukien.—Republican Daily News.

American Widow Fails in Lebaudy Suit.

MRS. FRANCES MENDHAM

This is an exclusive photograph of Mrs. Frances Mendham, an American widow, whose suit for $100,000 for alleged breach of promise gainst Robert Lebaudy, a Franco-American millionaire, was thrown out of a London court. Lebaudy is a brother of the eccentric millionaire, Jacques Lebaudy, self-styled "Emperor of the Sahara," who was killed by his wife in their Long Island home a few years ago.

Weather Reports

Aug. 25.—High pressures on Lake Baikal and at the Loochoos. Low centres on the Inland Sea of Japan and the Gulf of Pechihli. The typhoon crosses the Gulf of Tongking in a WNW direction. Cyclonic winds, hard in the typhoon, moderate in the depressions. Westerly squalls along the Lower Yangtze. Violent thunderstorm with showers during the afternoon at Zikawei. Fine day at Formosa and along the coast. No telegrams to hand from the Valley.

Aug. 26.—Cloudy and fine weather; heavy humidity. The breeze, moderate or light, shifts from SW. to SE. Pressure slightly falling, but at the normal level.

Aug. 27.—The depression of Chi-li will advance towards Liaotung and Korea, with cyclonic winds. The typhoon will disappear to the West of Haiphong. Regular monsoon between the China Sea and Shantung. Fine and hot weather, (possibly thunderstorms; but not a single telegram has been received from the Valley since yesterday.)

The Kiangsu-Chekiang-Fukien Situation

IF there were two prominent men in Shanghai who were enemies, and each had declared his intention of killing the other at sight, all grant that the situation would have elements of danger. Then suppose that each of these men had a number of followers and that both gangs were armed—armed "to the teeth"—to use the latest and most approved language of the movie melodrama, then we would have an interesting situation.

It is pretty difficult for the average person to imagine such a situation in Shanghai either among foreigners or among Chinese, but strange as it may seem, we do have a situation greatly similar to this in the area immediately outside of the boundaries of the foreign settlements. We refer to the present strained political situation between the Chinese provinces of Kiangsu, Chekiang and Fukien. There isn't any particular need explaining the political situation existing in this part of China, except to repeat what is already known. The Province of Chekiang just south of Shanghai is controlled by General Lu Yung-hsiang who has his headquarters at the city of Hangchow which is about five hours from Shanghai on the Shanghai-Hanchow-Ningpo Railway. The Province of Kiangsu, in which Shanghai is located is controlled by General Chi Shih-yuan who has his headquarters at the city of Nanking about eight hours distant on the Shanghai-Nanking Railway and about fifty hours away by steamer up the Yangtsze. Kiangsu Province with the exception of a small section surrounding Shanghai is a so-called "loyal" province in so far as the Central Government at Peking is concerned. Chekiang Province on the other hand is "independent" of the Peking Government. To the south of Chekiang Province is the Province of Fukien, which in recent months has become "loyal" to Peking.

According to the 1923 edition of the China Year Book the military strength of these three provinces is as follows: Kiangsu, 79,320 men; Chekiang, 61,875; Fukien, 84,050. In addition to the armies each of these three provinces has a "navy" or at least a few gun-boats of obsolete type, but nevertheless capable of doing some damage. Two of these provinces Kiangsu and Chekiang have recently built up an air-force. Chekiang has an arsenal which is located at Lunghua on the outskirts of the French concession of Shanghai. Nanking has no arsenal, but has a mint which is equally useful. The only branches of modern-up-to-date warfare lacking in these war-like preparations are those of poison-gas and submarines, but possibly these may be added soon for China is progressing rapidly.

Now with this situation as it is, there is no man in the world who is in a position to say whether there is going to be a war in this section of China, or who can say with any degree of accuracy just when this war is likely to start. The latest information on the subject is that General Wu Pei-fu, chief military power behind the Peking Government has decreed that General Lu Yung-hsiang of the "independent" Province of Chekiang, be eliminated. Not one of these generals could himself tell whether there is to be a war and if so when it may start. Each general has his his own intelligence officers and the usual quota of spies and informers inside of the camp of the other. Every move is reported and exaggerated. If General Che recruits a dozen soldiers and sends them to Soochow, the number immediately becomes a hundred when it is reported in Hangchow. If General Lu sends a hundred fresh troops to the Shanghai area the number becomes a regiment when reported in Nanking. If one of General Che's gunboats which are anchored in the river at Nanking changes its position, immediately the report is in circulation that a fleet is coming to Shanghai to attack General Lu's "independent" navy and to capture the Shanghai arsenal.

If the situation were not so serious it would be highly amusing. It reminds one of the old feudal fights in mediaeval Europe or the fights between the wild Indian tribes of the North American Continent—or if we want another simile—it reminds one of some of [illegible] which have been staged in recent years for the movies. And it is just about as sensible as one of these movie extravaganzas.

There is nothing new in the tense political between Kiangsu and Chekiang. It develops every few months and when we had the last scare the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce in Shanghai bestirred itself and forced the generals of Nanking and Hangchow to sign a peace pact which was duly published in all the papers. Each general agreed to keep the peace as long as he was not "attacked," but herein lies the danger for behind each of these generals are forces which desire an outbreak of war. Behind General Che is General Wu Pei-fu who wants to eliminate General Lu because Lu interferes with the Loyang General's plan for unification of China by military force. And behind Lu is General Chang Tso-ling at Mukden who is opposed to General Wu Pei-fu and the Peking Government. In addition to this there are the discordant elements at Canton under Dr. Sun Yat-sen who are friendly with Chekiang Province and also opposed to Peking. The schemings and plottings which are constantly going on in these various military camps makes the situation highly dangerous and no person of intelligence would be so rash as to attempt to forecast what may happen.

As has been emphasised in these columns of The China Press the most important thing which China needs right now is peace. The last "war" between Mukden and Peking plunged the country into chaos and debt and the fighting around Canton has further damaged the internal and international status of the country. A new war in this section of China would be the most damaging thing that could possibly happen to the country. In the Shanghai area are concentrated the great commercial and industrial development of the country, both foreign and native, and a war here would be a terrible thing. It would quite likely bring serious foreign complications and there would be no end to the trouble.

The price of peace in this section of China is eternal vigilance on the part of all interests concentrated here. The foreigners can help a little but the chief burden rests with the Chinese commercial and financial interests in Shanghai. The Chinese commercial interests here are in a position to stop this war before it starts and they can perform this great service if they will direct the necessary energy and intelligent thought in that direction.

Rubber Prospects

HAPPILY those hectic days are over when a few stumps were driven into the ground and dignified into the status of a rubber plantation and when bogus company flotations were the order of the day. No more do we behold the spectacle of Shanghai notables engrossed in the amiable pastime of throwing dice for ten dollars apiece at a local club bar after the crash of 1910. The rubber situation, nevertheless, presents a genuine problem for those who have put money into the business, and it is worth while to pause and take stock of the situation from time to time. We note from the London telegram published in another column today that the Times makes reference to the subject, holding the view that, in certain given circumstances, the outlook for all but the most efficient producers will become very unfavorable. The extent to which the output is now limited is exerting an adverse influence on costs, and if over a lengthy period no compensation is given by a higher price, some planters will begin to wonder if, after all, restriction is only a means of rendering the inevitable period of strain more prolonged than would otherwise have been the case.

The position of the rubber market, though not quite so bad as in the closing days of June, is not satisfactory. It was generally expected that the price would, under the Stevenson scheme, be fairly stabilised around 1s. 3d. This has not, so far, proved to be the case, without doubt due to the fact that only a portion of the industry is undergoing restriction. It was always felt that the refusal of the Dutch growers to come into the scheme would prejudice the position to a certain extent, but that is not the main cause of difficulty. It is the native cultivation in the Dutch East Indies, which is not subject to restriction, which is of greater extent than was formerly believed to be the case. The interesting question is at what price the native ceases to produce to such an extent as lately? It is considered that at 10d. the natives would largely reduce their production, and some have even thought that a year or two at 10d. would be the best, in the circumstances, for the European industry. It is very natural, in the present circumstances of the rubber industry, that the producers should look for further remedies to improve their position, and some of them have turned to the possibility of a selling combine for salvation. There are only two ways of keeping a market artificially at a paying level—by restriction and by holding stocks. Rubber producers have now restriction, and therefore a selling combine would only give them an advantage by encouraging outside capital to hold stocks which rubber companies are unable to do themselves. The objection to that is that large stocks seem always a danger. A further objection to the selling combine is that the rubber companies who join will have to pay a considerable sum for the use of the capital for holding the stocks. The hopes of another school of producers are fixed more on new uses for rubber.

In this connection, there is much to encourage optimism of a quite robust type as to the future of the industry. Reference has been made to the disappointing rate of increase in the consumption of rubber owing to the inconvenient longevity of the modern cord tyre, but we many yet see—possibly in a very short time—this disability more than counterbalanced by the development of new uses for this unique and comparatively little-known substance. Already the pure crepe rubber sole for footwear has made rapid strides in public favor, and who shall say that this wonderful material is not destined ultimately to supersede leather, not entirely, but to a very large extent, in one of the most fruitful fields of consumption that could well be imagined? Nor has the last word yet been said about rubber as a road-paving material. In this direction, developments have been slow, but steadily progressive. But the world-wide expansion of motor traction, which is yet only in its early stages, is alone sufficient to ensure the future of the plantation rubber industry and to confirm the conviction that the time cannot be very far ahead when all the rubber the world can produce will find ready absorption at an economic price. Shanghai is a case in point. With a motor bus service already in sight, with motor traction generally steadily expanding, and with railless tram cars making their appearance in the side streets of the Settlement, the wear and tear produced on the nerves of the average man by the conglomeration of noises are becoming greater and greater. Rubber paving for roads will be a blessing of the benefits of which no city dweller can be insensible, and from that direction salvation for the rubber industry may ultimately come.

Britain's New Labor Movement

THE exact importance of the trade union revolt in Great Britain will not be fully appreciated out here until more information is forthcoming as to the composition of the National Minority Movement, formed for the purpose of working within the trades unions against their present leaders. The decision to form such a body seems to have been taken under the auspices of a most sinister body, the Red Trade Union International, the aims and scope of which is probably best described in terms of its name. It is in fact, a conference of those desiring to lead a revolution against the leaders of radicalism as politics knows that word. It would be idle to believe for one moment that, powerful as they undoubtedly are, the leaders of British trade unionism, have succeeded in achieving sufficient to command the unswerving loyalty of the whole of their followers. This must be all the more so when it is remembered that the access of Labor to power in Britain has not, up to the present, been marked by any legislation of a socialistic tendency. Indeed, what measures of this nature have been passed within the last few years have been rather the work of the Liberal Government, and a legacy to that so ably led by Mr. Ramsay MacDonald. These men who at present rule in the councils of the State were the old Trade Union leaders, men who preached the bitterest of warfare upon capital, who girded at the then leading parties for their failure to level capital to the standards of the worker. However, when from their number a Cabinet came to be formed, the lip-service which was formerly given to the doctrines of labor, were forgotten in the maturity which was forced upon them as much by the responsibilities of office, as by the limitation of their power in the House of Commons.

There did not come, and it is even more unlikely now, that opening of hostilities upon capital has started More than that, there has been no little delay in the introduction of legislation calculated to benefit tht workers at the expense of the capitalist, and the small number who were disappointed with the failure of Labor to embrace the true doctrines of communism have, in the past few months, been swelled by those who have seen the failure of their present leaders to perform anything in the nature of a grand offensive on the class they profess to hate so much. These men, some of whom may be said to belong to the permanently disappointed class, would be content with nothing but their own way, and the sight of their old leaders so moulding their policies as to meet the exigencies of the parliamentary situation must, to say the least, be decidedly exasperating.

The fact that there were two hundred delegates from British unemployment committees and trade unions means very little, and certainly gives no indication of the numerical strength which they claim to represent. And the decision they have arrived at may be nothing more than the eccentric outcroppings of momentary disappointment. For, besides the limitations placed upon it by the situation in which it finds itself in the House of Iommons, the Labor Government is unable to do much to retrieve its promises by reason of the present economic situation. It has by now discovered that no matter how strong the driving force of principle may be, expediency acts as the most powerful drag. As we pointed out shortly after the Labor Party came into power, it would be faced with serious consequences if it failed to keep the pledges which it gave at the general election. That those pledges have not been kept is common knowledge, but the fact that this failure is due to circumstances wholly outside of the control of the party is not much of an excuse to a section which can only judge success by the achievement of the results it particularly desires. This failure, however, will not, we think, militate in favor of this new movement. Rather is it likely that those who swung their votes from the older parties will return to their former allegiance, so that the Labor Party will not suffer so much from the schism which threatens, as from the secession of those whose aid in the last general elections was purely adventitious.

EXCERPTS FROM GREAT WRITERS

By Mathy

A DULL DAY

The sun may be shining when you read this, but it was a dull day when it was written.

The sky is an ugly, drab smudge. There is no sun, no rain, no wind, nothing.

Across the street is a house. It is a stupid house, full of stupid people. I know them. I wish I didn't. There are many people you are sorry to have met.

It's too close to have a fire and too cold to do without one. Is anything hollower and drearier than a fireless fireplace?

A bird is on a tree outdoors. He is not singing. His head is all drawn down into his shoulders. He is just sitting there hating himself.

A number of people have passed by the window. They are the dullest, homeliest bunch of human creatures I ever saw. I hate them all.

A crash—the hired girl has just smashed one of our best plates, an extra fine Sunday plate with gold on it. The only reason I don't go out and give her a dressing-down is because I hate to move.

Why move? Such a day as this you are no happier anywhere then where you are. If you must be miserable, why spread it around?

Old Mrs. Grumpet has just called. She has told the missus for the. . . . time about her troubles. She has all the diseases she ever heard of. As soon as she hears of a new one, she goes and has it. She has more symptoms than a patent-medicine almanac. And it's all along of that blue mass she took just before Anstey was born. She's a dreadful, vast, steamy creature.

She has left an aroma of added wretchedness in the house. We opened the window to admit some fresh air, and the flies came in. I loathe flies.

I chased them with a fly-swatter and broke an expensive vase. All vases must some day be shattered, as all men must die.

All women must die, too, and all children, also all dogs, cats, horses, cows, and grizzly bears. A hundred years from now everybody and everything will be dead. There will be a new crop. After awhile they, too, will die. What's the use?

The gas-stove is out of fix this morning. So am I. So is the universe.

There is no news in the paper. Newspapers are all poor. Why read? Aren't you miserable enough as you are?

I am trying to have a vacation and enjoy myself. This morning I played a game of tennis and was beaten by a poor boob that that played worse than I. Then I played two games of solitaire. Lost both.

I went to the cupboard to see—. Nothing there but grape-juice.

The weather is thickening. It is going to rain. It is hours and hours till bedtime.

More Truth Than Poetry

BY S. F. KISER

"Now I'll go out," he said, "and preach
Against all graft and greed;
I'll tell the people how to reach
The wisdom that they need.
There's no such thing as freedom here,
The lords of commerce rule;
I'll speak the truth, and have no fear
Of plutocrat or profiteer,
Or any other fool.

"The crowds that shout for Uncle Sam
Shall hear the truth from me;
Democracy is but a sham
Where speech no more is free;
The wealthy rascals merely wink
At laws they wish to break;
In ignorance the people sink,
Unwilling to attempt to think;
I'll cause them to awake.

"I'll tell the truths that should be told
In every market-place;
Oppression has become too bold,
I'll scorn it to its face;
I'll cause the stupid crowds to rise
And cast their bonds away;
It's time for breaking evil ties,
For being brave, as well as wise,
And ceasing to delay."

He started out, with noble zeal,
To let the truth be known,
And cause his fellow men to feel
Such fervor as his own;
He told the crowds some reasons why
The Government must fail;
He dared to let grave charges fly
At men in places that were high—
That night he slept in jail.

THE OPIUM PROBLEM

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS:

Dear Sir:—I have been endeavoring for years to try and keep before the public a whole-sided view of the opium question in relation to the monopolies of the Far Eastern possessions; it is, therefore, with regret that I refer to the article upon which you so ably commented in THE CHINA PRESS entitled "The Opium Problem: An American view". So many American writers on this subject never make any reference to the large monopolies of the East, which are not British. I have had occasion recently to work out the details and they are as follows:—India exports yearly about one million pounds of opium to the monopolies of the East. Of this, 328,000 lbs. goes to the British monopolies—all of which were mentioned by the American writer—and 746,000 goes to the non—British monopolies of Siam, Indo-China, Macao, Formosa and Dutch East Indies, which he did not mention.

If culpability be assigned in proportion to the amount of opium imported, why single out the British and neglect Japan, Holland, France, Siam and Portugal? The American correspondent states in detail from the House of Commons report the amount of yearly revenue derived from opium in the British monopolies, but not a word about the revenue derived by the larger consumers. This could not be stated, for there are no statistics.

The American correspondent says "This policy of Great Britain hurts us. We hate to see a country so fine as England, which we admire in so many ways, adhering to something we must perforce condemn." I agree with him absolutely, but he should also remember that America, up to within the last two years, was the largest importer of opium and certainly the largest exporter of narcotic drugs in the world. Thanks to the work of Senator Porter and other workers, America is now giving an excellent example to the world, but she must not so easily forget that, with the exception of China and India, she has more narcotic addicts than any other country and that they were made such by her own manufactured or imported products. As a matter of recognised fact, few countries can afford to throw stones, or the consumer to curse the producer. For ten years not a pound of Indian opium has been exported to America, and if the correspondent's figures regarding Turkey and Persia be correct—which they are not—then America must have imported the whole yearly production of these two countries prior to 1922 for morphia manufacture.

There must be a number of persons in London who could have corrected the figures of this American correspondent in the "Weekly Westminster," for, in order to add to the guilt of the British, this correspondent increases the yearly opium production of India by one-third, and decreases that of Persia and Turkey by almost two-thirds. The difference is even still greater if opium is estimated in terms of its morphia content.

We are all working strenuously for the one end, namely the limitation of opium production and narcotic manufacture to medical purposes only; the problem is international, and only by generous international action can it be accomplished, therefore it is imperative that everything which tends to produce discord by over-emphasis or impartial statement should be restrained. The effect of the American delegation on the League of Nations Opium Conference last year was positively phenomenal, but this effect was produced by making the moral factor insistent and by keeping clear of all national delinquencies. All had sinned, all were sinners, and "it ill becomes the best of us to say what we think of the worst of us."

Fukien Mobilizes Troops In Both North And South

(China Press Correspondence)

Foochow, Aug. 14.—Mobilisation of troops both in North and South Fukien seems to be taking place. It will be remembered that some little time ago General Sun Ch'uan-fang received orders from the Central Government to attack Canton. He asked for $3,000,000 to defray expenses. It is reported that recently he received $100,000 as a first remittance. Coincident with the arrival of the money he commenced to move troops, but the movements would seem to indicate a different opinion from that held by the Central Government in regard to the Canton expedition.

Troops of the 3rd brigade, 2nd division, under command of Brig. Gen. Lu Hsiang T'ing, received urgent orders from Gen. Sun to move into North Fukien while other troops, within the last few days, have been transferred from Foochow to South Fukien. In addition to these, the troops of Division Commander Wang Hsiang ch'en are also in South Fukien

Wang had also been appointed Garrison Commander of the T'ing Hang Circuit, and as the soldiers under Lai Shih-huang, belonging neigther to Ch'en Chiung-ming nor to the Provincial Government have been greatly troubling the people of the Yung T'ing district, Tuli Chou, with the approval of Wu Pei-fu has ordered Wang to enroll them in his ranks. This will have an important bearing on the future military situation in South Fukien. Fighting has already taken place at Yung Shan.

EXCITES COMMENT

The movement of the both Sun's and Chou's troops into North Fukien is exciting no little attention, inasmuch it is suspected that these two commanders are not on the best of terms except outwardly. Various reasons are assigned for this mobilisation, the most plausible being the following: For a long time the noted war-lord of Yu Ch'i, Lu Hsing Pang, has been a thorn in the flesh of the provincial authorities, until finally success crowned the efforts to get him and his troops enrolled in the government service, Governor Sah then appointed him Division Commander of the 1st Division Fukien Military Police. As soon as this was done, without awaiting orders from his superiors, he stationed some of his troops at Pu Lu Shan and at a little later date he sent another detachment of the troops to Hsia Tao, near Yen P'ing, nominally for the extermination of bandits. This was trespassing on the territory of Gen. Meng, one of Gen. Sun's most trusted men, and created grave suspicion as to Lu's real designs. Consequently during the last few days troops have been moving from Foochow to the up-river districts, first the 3rd brigade of the 2nd division, and on the 5th, the 3rd regiment of the 24th brigade, 12th division, under Gen. Kung.

It is reported that preparations have been made for the despatch of a large detachment on the night of the August 15. Another explanation for the movement of troops northward is the report that Ts'ang Chih P'ing, Wang Yung Ch'uan, Yang Hua Chao and Ch'i Hsieh Yuan of Chekiang are about to unite in an invasion of Fukien from Chekiang There is little ground for such a statement as Ch'i has all he can do to take care of the affairs of Chekiang as they exist at the present time. No attempt is being made to impress coolies into the army as carriers or laborers. The matter of collecting the needed number has been left in the hands of the Min Hou Magistrate who is sending deputies out in all directions and offering 24 dimes, it is stated, to each coolie for carrying a load as far Shui Kou.

LOANS DEMANDED

In order to meet military expenses Border Defense Commissioner Sun formerly issued bonds to the amount of $1,000,000, and called for a loan from the people in exchange for these bonds. To a people who had already suffered heavy losses from floods and other causes, this seemed a heavy burden, and there was no hearty response. Now it is reported that Tuli Chou has also issued a notice to the effect that in view of the urgent needs of the army, he must have a loan of $800,000, within the next two months, and 3-year bonds in denominations of $50, $10, $5 and $1 have been issued for that amount. These bonds are legal tender for the payment of land-taxes, but as these taxes have already been paid for the next three years, these bonds will expire before any more land-taxes are due.

The value of the dime continues to fall, and money market is tight.

A gold digger is a young woman, generally good looking, who painlessly extracts money and other valuabels from the gentlemen of her acquaintance, usually without making them an adequate return.
